the case of state vs. Dominick Diadato, charged with first degree murder, it being alleged that he shot and killed Alphonse Barbuto in a seloon in New London on May 27 of this year.

When court opened Assistant Clerk Norman informed the court that he had received a telephone message to the effect that Juror Larkin of Lisbon had been sick all night and would not be able to be in court until noon. A recess was taken until 11.50 o'clock when the juryman showed up, and the murder case was resumed. Dr. Braman was not cross-examined. Dr. H. M. Lee was then called, he being the medical examiner of New London, and he told of being called to the Grippo saloon about 11 o'clock on the night of May 27, and found a man on the floor tried to interfere, but Dladato pushed loon about 11 o'clock on the night of May 27, and found a man on the floor with a sheet over his head. He saw the body later at the undertaker's rooms, where he put the clothing in a sealed bundle. The clothing was shown and the bullet hole and blood stains shown. An autopsy was performed the next day, and he described formed the look of the shoulders. Barbuto was in front of Diadato. Heard Diadato Threaten Barbuto.

Mary Mareno, aged 32, a native of Waterbury, was called. She was divorced in New Haven ten years ago. She lives at 20 Shaw street, New London, and Barbuto boarded with her four months previous to going to board with Grippo. She had known Diadato a year, but he never boarded with her. About a month before the murder sie heard Didato say to Barbuto: "Me fix you by and by." She didn't think Barbuto heard the threat, as he was passing through a yard of the witness on his way home, and Diadato was at 18 Shaw street. She declared that Barbuto was not her lover, and that she didn't break up a knife that he carried or borrow an axe to break up a knife. She denied that Diadato beat her because Barbuto came to her house. She saw Barbuto there morning, afternoon and evening of the day of the murder, and he always had coffee and dinner there. They had a can of beer, as Barbuto eame there most every day, but she did not tell him of the threat.

SHIPYARD SEEMS ASSURED. Representatives Expected at Groton to Look Over Yard.

Evidences that there will be a ship yard in operation on the Groton side of the Thames river are accumulating daily. On Thursday representatives of the Scotch Interests in the proposed new concern were expected to go over the plant in Groton, but falled to materialize.

It will be of interest to business men in New London and Groton to earn that the foundation upon which the tale of a new shippard is being built is not of the rainbow variety. A great deal of the data pertaining to the making over of the old shipbuilding plant has been well knwon to newspaper men for some weeks, but it was given under the seal of confidence.

The new concern will assume charge of the yard with a rental of some $300 per month, slightly larger than the amount paid for rent by the Eastern Shipbuilding Co.

The men who are interested in the new concert are not showing their hand, but are quietly going ahead and preparing for work. The total denupreparing for work.
